

6.170 ARMR

Design Decisions Post Revised Design Doc

Anna, Rachel, Maddie, Ryan

1. Email reminders

- a. Instead of sending automatic reminders before a party occurs, we decided to implement functionality to allow the host to remind invitees and attendees of the party. This way, the host can decide when exactly is the best time to remind users, as different parties may have different timelines about when users should be reminded. By moving away from the one fits all model, we are able to give hosts more control over reminders and when they are sent. Possible misfits include a host excessively reminding their guests by clicking the button multiple times.